A New Nail Machine.
G. W. Frazier, of Allegheny City, Pa., is in the city to interest Wheeling capitalists in a new nail machine, which it is claimed will revolutionize even the wire nail industry. Nails similar and equal to the wire nail, the old fashioned cut nail and other shapes are formed direct from the steel ingots, which pass through rolls and then through the machine.

A Wheeling Man Killed.
Chief of Police McNichol yesterday received a letter from Pittsburgh, saying a man had been killed on the Pan-Handle road near that city, who was believed to be from Wheeling and to live on Forty-first street. Captain McNichol made inquiries, and with the description furnished he had no difficulty in identifying the dead man as Franz Oleski, a Pole who worked at Benwood and lived in the Eighth ward.

An Organization Effected.
The newly elected directors of the combination of the Top, Belmont and Benwood iron companies, known now as the Wheeling Iron and Steel company, met yesterday and elected C. R. Hubbard president and general manager, J. D. Dubois, secretary, George Wise, treasurer, and George K. Wheat, Alonzo Loring and Joseph Bell members of the executive committee. A large amount of other business was also transacted.

The Warwood Tool Works.
The work of removing the equipment of the Standard axle works and replacing it with machinery for the Warwood tool-works has been going on for some time. A large force has been steadily employed. Mr. Dan Heiskell, the owner, has been inspecting different plants of a similar nature, and will have the latest and most improved machinery in the new plant. Everything is now in shape for starting operations, and it is expected that work will be commenced in a few days.

Accused of Theft Again.
A postal card has been received at police headquarters from the police authorities of Newark, Ohio, describing a watch which was recently stolen there. At the bottom is added to the printed card in writing a postscript: "The supposed thief is Charles Lippincott, of your city." Lippincott is the man who was barkeeper at the Monarch saloon, and stole a big roll of bills from Clark, then the proprietor. When asked yesterday what had become of that case, the police said it had never been tried. He is out on bail.

Delegates Straggling Home.
Most of the remaining delegates to the Republican state convention left Huntington yesterday morning. Gen. I. H. Duval came to Wheeling last night and will go on home to Wellsburg this morning. Mr. P. B. Dobbins came home. Mr. J. W. Whitmyer stopped off at Mountsville. Nearly all the others remained in Parkersburg for the big ratification meeting last night. Gen. Duval said it was the largest and finest convention he ever saw, and everybody was perfectly satisfied, and even enthusiastic, over the result.

OUR NEIGHBOR, MARS.

His Great Performance Postponed for Three Days.

NOT ON ACCOUNT OF THE WEATHER.

But Because It Was Wrongly Announced by His Advance Agent. The Bright, Particular Star Popular with the Wheeling People, but Velled by Haze Most of the Time.

For two or three nights many Wheeling people have observed the brilliant planet Mars. It cannot be observed to very good advantage, for the reason that the sky has been cloudy or the air hazy most of the time. Wednesday night for awhile, however, it showed up to great advantage, and everybody who had a telescope or good field glasses was looking at it. Viewed through an ordinary spyglass or powerful field glass the star looked very much as it did to the naked eye. Its rich red tint was more apparent, and its upper edge seemed to have constant flickering blue flames.

The INTELLIGENCER Thursday printed an article from a New York paper saying that the planet was in opposition about one o'clock that morning. This statement was very generally made, but it is erroneous. Possibly in view of the unfavorable weather the bright performance has been postponed till Sunday morning. How the mistake arose is thus explained by a Cincinnati scientist:

"A remarkable error has been made by the American astronomical world in the matter of the time of opposition. Here is the American Ephemeris, the standard nautical almanac, which sets the opposition for August 3, and by which the astronomers of the nation have doubtless been guided.

"The standard authority of the world, however, is the Berliner Jahrbuch, which, as you see, gives the time of our opposition with the red planet as clearly as possible at a little after midnight of August 8—next Saturday.

"The error is one so apparent that I cannot understand it, but here are the figures as you see. The astronomers and the newspapers of the Western world have been ante-dating the event by three days."

If it is a clear night Saturday it will be worth while to take a good long look at Mars, even without a telescope. It is a beautiful sight. Even if the sky should not be clear for several nights the star can be seen to almost as good advantage for several weeks before and after the brightest point has been reached.

The earth and Mars have been approaching at a pace increasingly slow and will now recede from each other with a speed increasingly rapid by reason of the lesser orbit of the earth. The opposition would be equal to an eclipse upon Mars were the distance between the earth and the lesser planet not so enormous—35,000,000—as to make the earth's shadow fall far short. The earth is interposed for the time between the sun and Mars.

About ten o'clock last night the sky cleared up beautifully, and the planet came out in the southeastern sky in all its glory. All over town little groups observed it with interest. A man with a telescope could make a barrel of money on the streets of Wheeling these nights.
